

THE HISTORY
OF
THE FOURTH

With the battell at Shrewsbury betweene the King and Lord Henry Percy, commonly called the Hotshoote

With the humorous conceits of Sir
John Falstaffe.

AT LONDON

Printed by P. S. for Iohn Iohnes, at the signe of the Anchor in Pauls Church yard.

THE HISTO
Henry the f

Enter the King, Lord Iohn of Westmerland, with

King.

SO shaken as we are, so v
Find we a time for fright
And breath short winde
To be commende in str
No more the thirstie entrance of thi
Shal dawbe her lips with her own
No more shall trenching war chan
Nor bruisse her flourets with the ar
Of hostile paces: those opposed eie
Which like the meteors of a troubl
Al of one nature, of one substance
Did lately meete in the intestine fl
And furious close of ciuill butcherie
Shall now in mutuall welbeseemin
March all one way, and be no more Against acquaintance, kindred and
The edge of war, like an ill sheath
No more shall cut his maister: there
As far as to the sepulcher of Christ,
Whose soldiour now, ynder whose
We are impressed and ingag'd to f
Forthwith a power of English shal Whose armes were moulded in the
To chase these pagans in those hol
Ouer whose acres walkt those blest